We provide talent advisory services such as compensation analysis, executive assessment, and on boarding and acculturation.

Industrial Services

Change is inevitable and industrial companies are increasingly recognizing the power of the customer experience as an engine for change and growth in this demanding sector. As a result of change, industrial companies are looking for leaders who can foster innovative organizational cultures and convert intangible ideas into a tangible practice.

Our Industrial Practice Group works in both mature and growing businesses supporting search mandates for C-Suite, Senior Executive, and key leadership appointments. Many of these searches need to be conducted in a confidential manner, which we are fully prepared to do.

Our experienced and specialized Industrial Consultants know the realities of the rapidly evolving globalization of the world of manufacturing. In addition, they recognize the importance of innovation, are living the speed of transformation in emerging markets and are daily assessing, motivating and recruiting world class leaders, thereby ensuring success and breakthrough performance for our clients.

We strive for excellence and we are always ready to serve you, be it on a regional or national level.

Our consultants help you stay ahead of the curve of ongoing transitions in the Industrial landscape. We work closely with you to assess candidates' key experiences, core competencies, and leadership potential.

Business Markets

Automotive

Product and technology innovation has never been more prevalent with advances in alternative fuels, electrification of vehicles, autonomous vehicle innovation and entirely new value propositions centered on connectivity. This requires organizations to rethink their approach to leadership and culture. With profound experience in supporting our clients nationally and cross-functionally, Comhar consultants offer expertise as you navigate this change.

Engineering and Construction

Companies that engineer, manufacture, integrate and service advanced components, equipment and machinery face stiff competition, and rapidly evolving markets. Comhar Partners will find you leaders that provide a competitive advantage by continuously innovating, and providing flawless business executions. Comhar finds you leaders who can motivate and manage transformation through high-performing teams and targeted talent management.

Supply Chain and Logistics

A high performing Supply Chain and/or Strategic Sourcing function provides deep value to every aspect of commerce. Progressive companies in all business sectors benefit greatly by delivering end-to-end process management.

With more than 30 years of comprehensive Supply Chain & Industrial experience, Comhar Partners is here to strategize ways to close talent gaps, apply solutions that address current concerns and challenges while identifying leadership potential.

Building Products

The engineering, construction, and building materials industries drive, impact and reflect the globalization of business, possibly more than any other industry. Our specialized consultants bring a wealth of experience in building products and will bring you top leadership talent across the spectrum.

Manufacturing

We help our Industrial clients take their business to the next level by utilizing cutting-edge assessment tools to ensure timely and effective evaluation of the best-in-class candidates from defined target markets while focusing on long-term partnerships.
